PAY THE LITTLE BOYS.

It is necessary that subscribers in the city pay the little carrier boys either by the week or month. The little fellows have to collect from their subscribers before they can get their money. So don't put them off—it is too much trouble to have to run after such a small amount. Arrange to pay them regularly every week and they will appreciate it and it will doubtless encourage them to be more exact with your paper every afternoon.

Merchants' sugar blanks—blanks that the government compels every merchant handling sugar to have at this time—are now ready at this office and can be mailed to any merchant upon receipt of price—50c per hundred. Merchants are requested to keep a record of these sales, so we also furnish a carbon sheet with each purchase, enabling the merchant to make a carbon copy of each purchase, which gives him a duplicate for filing purposes and which will serve as his record.

French Premier Is Almost Captured

Leaves Point on Front Just Before Uhlans Arrive.

Paris, May 31.—Premier Clemenceau had the narrowest possible escape from falling into German hands yesterday, according to the Petit Journal. He left a certain point on the front only a few minutes before the arrival of a patrol of 40 uhlans.

When the Germans entered the little town the premier had just quit they cornered a few of the French who had remained, including a general who was examining positions with a field glass, the newspaper adds. The general was killed in the encounter.

The premier again left Paris this morning for the front.

To Get Uniforms and Equipment

The local company State militia is soon to be rigged out with uniforms, guns and all necessary paraphernalia, so we are informed. This equipment is now on the way, we are told, and it would not be surprising now to see our local company appear in full regulation uniforms most any evening. It is also a well known fact that this company will see service soon. Having been accepted into Federal service several weeks ago, passed several rigid inspections by high officials of the army, together with urgent demand and frequent calls for additional troops now being made, makes it reasonable that Company "C" may be called into actual service on short notice. The young men as we understand it, would go into regular training at one of the training camps for a period of several months, as has been required of the drafted men. With the training they have already had, it would take less time to develop them into seasoned soldiers.

PAY WAR TAX ON YOUR TICKETS

A Government war tax will be collected on all Chautauqua season tickets this year. This tax must be paid once and for all before the ticket is used for the first time.

In order to avoid delays at the gate on the opening afternoon, arrangements have been made so that the tax can be paid at Kiser's Shoe & Clothing Store, beginning at 8 o'clock Monday morning, and during business hours thereafter, until Tuesday at noon. On Tuesday afternoon, which is the date for the Chautauqua opening, the tax can be paid at the tent. The tax is 25c on adult season tickets and 13c on children's season tickets.

The tax is collected for the government and in no way benefits either the Redpath management of the local Chautauqua committee.

Here is a tip to avoid standing in line in the hot sun and missing the first number—pay the tax in advance.

Quota For Greene Not Yet Announced

The local board had not received sufficient information regarding the quota from Greene county to leave on June 24th to enable them to give out the number that will be required to go on this date. The call from the government is for 280,000 men.

The local board has been engaged the past week in reclassifying young men, placing those who had been put in deferred classes on account of agricultural dependency claims in Class 1. Quite a number of changes have taken place, and there will be many more. These young men will no doubt be among those who will have to leave on the 24th of this month.

Why We Fight

No. 6

Because German Lust of Conquest Menaces in Many Ways Our Very National Existence

By CLARENCE L. SPEED

Prepared Especially for the Hermitage Club of Nashville

Any one of the reasons why we are at war with Germany, mentioned in previous articles of this series, would be sufficient justification for this nation taking up arms. Only extreme patience, coupled, often, with complete failure to recognize the seriousness of the German menace to America and the world, kept the United States out of the war for nearly three years before it finally decided to join in. In fact justification for war with Germany existed years before the conflict in Europe was begun.

It has been shown that Germany, for years, had been plotting within our borders, encouraging immigrants to become citizens and at the same time remain faithful to the Kaiser. She filled our land with spies and agents of disorganization when, to all outward appearances, relations between America and Germany, were of the most friendly character.

From evidence supplied by the Germans themselves, it has been shown that Germany's doctrine that might alone is right would menace the very independence of the United States just as surely as it destroyed that of Serbia and Belgium, just as soon as Germany felt herself strong enough to make a formal attack. German lust of conquest knew no bounds.

Events of the last year have proven that Germany, having split the world in half by her creation of a Mitteleuropa, extending from the Baltic almost to the Persian gulf, was planning to devour the halves separately. The fact that our half of the world was being reserved for dessert was all the more reason why we should enter the war while a part, at least, of the other half was still making resistance.

Finally, when the collapse of Russia revealed the fact that Germany was fighting, not a war of self-preservation, but one of conquest pure and simple, and that the freedom of the entire world was menaced, any question of why we are fighting seemed superfluous.

The military party in Germany started the war because it believed the time ripe for conquest.

Proof that ambition, and not consideration of its own safety, prompted Germany to begin the war is given by the fact that Serbia and Belgium, two helpless little nations, were the first attacked.

Germany had under no compulsion, signed a solemn treaty to protect the neutrality of Belgium. When she branded this treaty "a scrap of paper," she gave proof that all her treaties would be so considered when her interests demanded. In other words, Germany's invasion of Belgium meant the tearing up of every treaty which existed between Germany and other nations. It was ample justification for America going to war at that moment.

This did not spur America at the time, but Germany's cruelties in Belgium, surpassing anything ever before known in modern history, gave further evidence that the world was not safe as long as such a government existed in it.

Then came Germany's conduct on the sea. With her battlefleet cravenly seeking shelter behind the defenses of the Kiel canal, Germany sent out her submarines and began a war on unarmed merchantmen. Women and children were her victims. American citizens, by the score went down to death on the Lusitania. The United States made a protest, and Germany promised to mend her ways. This she did, for a time, until she could build a fleet of bigger and better submarines, and then her pirate sea warfare broke out with fresh vigor. How could we keep out of war when Germany, after ruthlessly killing our citizens, deliberately closed the sea to us?

German plotters and spies, under the direct leadership of the German ambassador to this country, worked almost openly, blowing up industrial plants, sinking ships in our harbors, and menacing railroads and canals.

Germany, spurred by successes, openly began to announce plans for disciplining the United States. She scoffed at the Monroe doctrine, and tried to create a German state in Brazil which, in time would be strong enough to bring about a revolution and overthrow democratic government there.

By her huge armaments, her disregard of treaties, and her evident reliance on force alone, Germany was rapidly making the world an unsafe place in which to live, forcing all other nations to adopt the military system, or be at her mercy.

The German ambition to force German Kultur on the remainder of the world was well exploited. Kultur, to the German mind, was not what culture is to us. It was the whole German system, of government, of commercialism and of life. There was no place for democracy in a world which bore the stamp of German Kultur. If we valued our form of government, we had to go to war.

The fight which England and France took up from the beginning, and in which Belgium and Serbia laid down their lives, was America's fight long before it began, had America but realized. Now America does realize, and America cannot and will not make peace until the Prussian lust for conquest is curbed and the Prussian military power crushed for all time.
